OUR TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL CONVENTION NEARS

Last call for the twenty-third annual convention of the Central States Numismatic Society! The committee, under the direction of Executive Chairman Phil More, has planned an exceptional convention.

Registration will be one dollar, and all persons entering the bourse section will be required to have a registration badge. This badge will itself be a unique numismatic item as it features a medal designed and engraved by the late J. Henri Ripstra, famed Chicago numismatist. The obverse of the medal bears the bust of Abraham Lincoln and the date 1865, the final year of the Civil War. On the reverse is a listing of the important occurrences in the War in 1865. In addition to the convention badge a set of three of these rectangular medals in aluminum, bronze, and silver will be available in a suitable holder for fifteen dollars ($15) per set at the convention.

An outstanding exhibit section will highlight the convention. All C.S.N.S. members with the exception of convention committee members are invited to exhibit competitively in ONE of eight classifications. This year award winners will be presented with medals struck at the French mint in Paris. For complete information exhibitors are urged to contact exhibit chairman, J. Thomas Nolan, 4250 Marine Drive, Apartment 2212, Chicago, Illinois 60613.

A bourse of 120 tables has been sold out. The Nation's finest dealers will be on hand to serve the needs of every collector. This year a rule prohibiting selling from other than bourse tables will be strictly enforced. No floor "vest pocketing" will be tolerated! Uniformed guards will be on hand at all times in addition to a security room which shall be available for the dealers. This year all participating dealers will receive as a gift from the committee — a high intensity lamp.

An unusually fine auction will be presented in three sessions at the convention. The auction will be conducted by French's of 7 First Street, Troy New York. To be sold at the auction will be the Charles T. Heaton collection of commemorative half dollars, proof sets, rare proof half dimes, three cent nickel and silver pieces, two cent pieces, and large and half cents. Also offered in the auction will be the Henry and Alvin Colvin collection of rare fractional currency. Rounding out the auction will be a large selection of foreign crowns. The first auction session will be held Friday evening with two sessions slated for Saturday. Catalogs are available from the auctioneer.

Mrs. Marjorie Baker will host the ladies' activities. All conventioners are invited to take a grand tour of Chicago on Saturday. The cost of the tour is five dollars ($5) per person. Reservations should be made in advance with Mrs. Baker at 158 N. Parkside Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60644.

Noted numismatist Glenn Smedley has planned a fine educational program for Friday

EDITORIAL

There are many fraternal organizations, such as our Central States Numismatic Society, scattered throughout these United States. They are non-profit, and exist because the social nature of man causes him to seek kindred souls with whom to share his interests.

Often, these organizations are located in a geographically concentrated area, and under such conditions, there is ample, and frequent opportunity for meeting with one another. These meetings provide the stimulus needed for an aggressive and active organization. There can be a personal interchange of knowledge, an opportunity for trading, buying or selling, and fullest enjoyment of the camaraderie which invariably flourishes under these conditions.

Looking at the other side of the coin, what do we find to bind those organizations which do not have this geographical proximity? What do they have to offer to their members; what do they have to substitute for the personal touch, which is vital in any fraternal group?

Generally, the answer lies in the creation of districts, small enough to provide the personal contact, yet large enough to function as a separate entity. Through them the fraternal nature of the organization is preserved, and through their representation to the parent organization, the vigor, direction, and perpetuation of the parent organization is assured.

Those organizations which do not function in such a manner, must then of a necessity, provide their members with something which equals, or at least approximates, the advantages of a fraternal group. One major consideration is prestige. Human nature causes us to be proud of our ancestry, especially if prestige is concerned. Whether we are a descendant of an Aaron Burr, of a George Washington, or of an Abraham Lincoln, it does add to our desire for prestige, and likewise, those organizations which are prestige organizations, brings out our desire to be a part of them.

Where prestige is not a dominant factor, some other advantage must be offered. Many groups find such an advantage in their organizational publication and incentive programs. In our own Central States, it is my belief that our CENTINEL is the first step toward such incentives. Through it we may communicate with each other; through it we may buy, sell, and trade; through it we may enjoy the camaraderie which is so much a part of our hobby. And through your response in advising what you would like as incentive programs for individuals and clubs, can your organization best plan to serve you.

This is your organization, your publication — what it contributes to you, is dependent upon what you contribute to it. We cannot readily meet as a group; we are not districted; so let us all concentrate upon being a prestige organization, develop incentive programs, and make the CENTINEL the best publication of its kind.

Presenting . . .

Our President

With this Issue we begin the New Year 1965. I wish each of you Health, Happiness, and Prosperity.

Although indications point to another good year for Numismatics, it would be well at this time to resolve our indifference, and all strive to brighten our image as Numismatist.

I hope all of you appreciated the Centinel with the New Look. Again you are urged and invited to submit numismatic articles and other items appropriate for this Publication.

At this time, I would like to pay tribute to Elson Bradfield, and Lee Hewitt. Two dedicated men who have given so much hard work and valuable time to Edit and Publish this C.S.N.S. quarterly in the past.

C.S.N.S. now has a Historian and Custodian of property in the name of Dr. F. S. Epps, who is endeavoring to write the History of this Society from 1939 to the present date.

Don't forget our membership slogan. Every member sign a new member. $2 fee now will pay your dues until April 30, 1966.

Our Convention Dates are set up through 1968. Coin Clubs in the C.S.N.S. area with adequate facilities, that wish to Host a Convention in your City, send a written invitation to our Secretary Paul Olson, or they may be presented orally at the Business Meeting in Chicago.

Time passes fast. Only two months until the Convention. Mark these three days, April 23-25, and make this Convention a must. General Chairman, Phil More, and his excellent Committee, are making every effort for a truly Gala Numismatic Event.

Convention Highlights; Will be the tremendous amount of outstanding Exhibits, Bourse, 120 leading Dealers of the United States, and Canada, a first-rate auction conducted by Mr. Charles French, Troy, N.Y., The Educational Forum under the direction of Mr. Glen Smedley is sure to be a Numismatic Treat. Don't miss it. Ladies' activities, promises never a dull moment for them—climaxed by a luncheon and tour of Chicago. The C.S.N.S. Business meeting, and Banquet.

Make your reservations early for Exhibit Space, and Hotel accommodations.

See you in Chicago.

Sincerely,
Leo G. Terry

REPORT FROM YOUR SECRETARY

Your secretary often winds up the year in a blue mood because of an outsize list of deceased, resigned, and dropped members, especially dropped. Each dropped member received three special notices from the secretary, and many were contacted by officers and governors. It is understandable that to many the C.S.N.S. did not bring benefits expected. But all members present and past have had a part in building up the Society to the point where it can be very helpful to members and their clubs. Constructive criticism is always welcome, especially if the member commenting will put his shoulder to the wheel and give us needed help. Bouquets are appreciated when earned.

Please read the notice of a constitutional amendment restoring age 18 as the date when applicants can become Regular Members. Those who have attained age 14 and are not yet 18 may become Junior Members.

The new members you sign up between the first of the year and April 30th will have cards running up to April 30, 1966. This is a good talking point. Applies to new members only.

Send articles, news stories, suggestions — all are welcome. Let club officers tell the membership about their activities. Our conventions should have a "club class" of exhibits of stationery, cards, flyers, publications, medals and tokens, so that hard working officials will receive credit due them. Main thing is that we want to hear from you.

SPECIAL FEATURE AT M.N.S.

Several significant announcements and particularly one special feature, marked as unusual the 272nd regular monthly meeting of the Missouri Numismatic Society which convened in the Gold Room of Hotel Sheraton Jefferson, St. Louis, Missouri, Monday, November 9.

In light of the many continuing nation-wide coin robberies, and past and recent robberies of several Society members, the 100 attending members and 17 guests listened attentively to a tape recording report of the society's anonymous Theft Investigating Committee.

The report, which analyzed in detail the three recent robberies of members Joe Rataj, Eric Newman, and Anthony Rataj, revealed the forcing of a window and the springing of two door locks as methods of entry, and concluded that all the robberies were perpetrated by persons who either first had "cased" the various establishments themselves, or worked with a "finger" who provided the desired information. In all three cases, only valuable and/or unusual and rare items were taken, indicating the thief as being one proficient in current-day numismatic selling values.

To combat future coin thefts, and to aid in apprehending the thieves, the committee proposed a 5-point program. (1) That every major coin club in the country set up a committee on investigation to assist their members in a method of protection. (2) That the individual committees maintain close contact with local police departments not only after a robbery, but before as well, in checking out prospective club members. (3) That a definite plan of all-round protection be employed by purchasing coins from reputable persons only; by not showing valuable coins promiscuously, and never to strangers, and by keeping a record of all such showings, especially in one's home; by maintaining an accurate record of holdings; by keeping valuables in a safe deposit box at the bank; by marking coins for positive and safe identification (the committee stands ready to aid interested society members in this process); and by purchasing and maintaining a blanket insurance policy for fire, theft, and burglary. (4) That a bill of sale be requested from the dealer or seller, as future proof of ownership. (5) That in the case of valuable coins, sets or groups, a title of ownership showing all known past owners, be established, designed to accompany the coins in the event of ownership change.

The committee suggested further that the utmost precaution be taken to protect holdings by (1) using a door lock which cannot be opened from the inside by simply cutting the screen and breaking the glass. A Siegle lock was proposed. Also, by using chains on all doors to prevent forced entry when answering a door bell. (2) By keeping a record of phony-sounding telephone calls asking for odd names, especially on weekends when many burglaries occur between the hours of 5 and 9 p. m. Repeated calls bearing these aspects should be reported to the police. (3) By reporting any suspects immediately to the police and the society's officers who will relay the report to the investigating committee.

The Committee related in detail an incident demonstrating the method of operation of one would-be thief. At 4 p. m. one day, a man presented himself at the home of one of the society's members and asked the lady of the house for her husband on the pretense of discussing work. Upon being informed that the husband was not at home, he left saying he would be come back later.

Approximately 15 minutes later, the lady received a phone call from an unknown man professing to be an ambulance driver who had just taken her accident-victim husband to city hospital, and stating that he was told to notify her to go to the hospital at once. Acting upon a natural impulse, she prepared to depart for the hospital, but a premonition that something was peculiar prompted her to first phone her husband's place of business.

Upon learning there that apparently nothing was wrong, she then phoned the city hospital to verify her husband's condition, and finding the story to be untrue, immediately phoned the police to whom she gave the following description of her earlier visitor: A nice-looking, chubby-faced man about 40-45 years of age; weighing about 170 pounds; wearing no hat; possessing a full head of dark hair; having unusual large round brown eyes, and wearing a jacket.

This man apparently realized that he could not force an entrance to the house earlier because of the chain on the door, and used the above-cited ruse to get the lady away from the house. Only the foresight and clear thinking of the lady fore-stalled what most certainly would have been another robbery. The committee, asks that any suspicious characters answering this description be reported to the society's officers, and recommends that all such incidents bearing possible ruse aspects be checked into. It recommends further that particular security precautions be taken in times of grief, as many thieves pay particular attention to newspaper death notices, knowing that many houses are left empty at such times.

CHICAGO "FIRSTS"

Glenn Smedley's red baseball cap lettered "Glenn S." which he was wearing at Cleveland for his third or fourth convention was a reminder of other "Chicago Firsts."

The A.N.A. 1956 Convention in Chicago was the first to have over 1,000 registrations. For the first time a Security Room was provided for dealers and exhibitors.

* * *

In 1955 the Chicago Coin Club was the first to give exhibit prize winners a handsome medal instead of the usual ribbons. Their example was followed by Minneapolis and Milwaukee C.S.N.S. Conventions. For C.S.N.S. 1965 prize winning exhibitors, the Chicago Coin Club is having medals made by the Paris Mint in France.

* * *

In 1963, Phil More, then Bourse Chairman, persuaded his committee men to don handsome red jackets—it made them easy to find in the big rooms. Harry Boosel, the General Chairman, settled for a white summer jacket which was fine at an April Convention.

This year, to advertise the 1965 Chicago Convention, the Chicago Coin Club has reproduced part of an old Chicago Two Dollar bill on one side, and part of a Three Dollar bill issued by the Chicago Marine and Fire Insurance Company on the other side of a 3½ x 8¼ piece of bond paper. On one side there are convention dates and location and on the other the names and addresses of the chairmen. The bills are handsome bits of printing and are already showing in Chicago bars.

RANDOM COMMENTS

I received the last copy of the Centinel, and I want to compliment you on the wonderful improvement in this magazine. I think it will be a good selling point in getting new members, and retaining our old ones.

I do not think that A.N.A. items of the type you printed have any place in the Centinel. Those of our members who are A.N.A. get the news from The Numismatist and direct mail.

First, I would like to say the new format for the Centinel is a 100 per cent improvement and you are to be complimented for it. I just hope the organization can afford it.

Your new Centinel is a masterpiece! I'm happy for the change, and the color fits the picture on the front.

General Chairman Phil More, examines a specimen of the bills piled high upon his desk. They are all $5 denomination, and strangely enough, it takes both sides to make this $5 amount, since one side indicates a $3 value, and the other a $2 value. The bills have been widely circulated in the Chicago area, advertising the coming Central States Convention.

The Chatter Box

One of the biggest problems in maintaining a roster of members, is to have up-to-date information on address changes. It throws quite an additional load upon the Secretary in chasing them down, and worst of all, it deprives the member of receiving pertinent information which is sent out from time to time. It would be ideal if none of us ever moved, but since we do, it is our obligation to advise our Secretary.

It's not too early to make your hotel reservations for the April convention. As a matter of fact, it might be a good idea to do so right away because the C.S.N.S. Convention always draws a crowd, and when its held in Chicago, as it is this year, it's an overflow crowd. Write the Pick-Congress and make certain you have a reservation.

You wouldn't know this is 1965 by looking at the dates on newly minted coins. The mints are running full blast, and as far as they are concerned, it is still 1964. I'd venture two predictions: you will see 1965 dates before the calendar year ends, and somebody will advertise 1964 coins, guaranteed to be struck IN 1964.

It appears that the Franklin halves are fast being taken from circulation. I seem to receive more Standing Liberty halves in change than I do Franklins. Minted for 16 years, this coin will shortly be as scarce as the Standing Liberty quarter, which also enjoyed a short life span of an equal number of years.

Through our elected officers, the collectors and exhibitors among us have fullest representation in the Central States Numismatic Society. However, it occurs to me that a very important segment of our hobby is being neglected. I refer to the dealers, without whom we all know a successful show or convention could not be held. It would seem fitting and proper to have representatives of dealer's organizations sit in our board meetings to give us guidance and counsel.
